Mr. Nouredine Boudissa
Director General of ALGERAC

This year, ALGERAC celebrated as usual this Day, which took place on June 10, 2019 at the School of Light in Zéralda, involving all the stakeholders of the accreditation, namely OEC, public authorities, press, accreditation committees, board of directors and economic actors activating in logistics chains, in order to communicate the importance of certification and accreditation in the creation of value in logistics chains, thus facilitating international trade by building trust, in line with ILAC's one-time accredited slogan, recognized everywhere!

Certificates Awarding ceremony

At the same time, ALGERAC organized a ceremony for the awarding of certificates of accreditation for various fields of testing, inspection, calibration and medical biology to the benefit of OECs having been accredited since the same day in 2018.

ALGERAC MLAs

Mutual recognition agreements established at international level and signed by accreditors, such as ALGERAC, make it possible to recognize the equivalence of certificates issued by accredited bodies. They facilitate the acceptance of products and services across borders and avoid duplication of controls.

Strong Cooperation with Stakeholders in Algeria

The challenge for companies and public authorities, confidence in the supply chain is a matter of great concern in the context of international trade. 80% of these exchanges are based on information relating to tests, calibrations, inspections or certifications. By ensuring the technical competence and impartiality of conformity assessment bodies that deliver this information, accreditation helps to meet this need for trust.

This day was therefore centered on the theme of useful contributions of accreditation to supply chains in order to create value.

Supply chains are the engine that delivers affordable, timely products and services to consumers, businesses and the public sector. Accreditation, as well as standards, metrology and

As in previous years, the Day was celebrated in Algeria by ALGERAC to encourage the public to learn about the ways in which accreditation contributes to building a safer world and supporting businesses, governments and regulators.

EGAC participated as the sole assessment and accreditation body in Egypt in the Africa Food Manufacturing Exhibition. The Exhibition is considered one of the largest food processing and packaging exhibitions in Egypt and includes the latest developments in the industry, with the largest and most famous suppliers in the market as well as the latest trends and innovations in the food industry. The exhibition features pavilions for the country, featuring new and exciting technologies from around the world.

EGAC participation in the exhibition is also part of EGAC activities to commemorate the World Accreditation day, which will be held this year on the theme of Accreditation: Adding value to supply chains, which will be celebrated by all accreditation bodies worldwide.

The Africa Food Manufacturing Exhibition, held this year under the auspices of the Egyptian Ministry of Commerce and Industry, presents the full life cycle of the food and beverage manufacturing process. The exhibition focuses on packaging techniques such as packaging machines and processing techniques that include automation, robots, food ingredients including raw materials and flavors, logistics such as storage and transportation.

This exhibition serves as a gateway to trade between African countries and the rest of the world through its interactive platform of cutting-edge technology and business opportunities, offering a unique opportunity for manufacturers and shareholders to meet top buyers in the region under one roof.

EGAC, through its presence in the exhibition, aims to identify and raise awareness about the importance of obtaining accreditation in order to comply with international requirements and specifications for the quality of goods and services and to ensure the results of inspection, testing and inspection in accordance with international standards and to enjoy the international recognition of the accreditation issued by EGAC.

In the framework of the activities and efforts of the Egyptian Accreditation Council EGAC to spread the culture of quality and accreditation in Egypt, especially in the Egyptian industrial society, in order to raise awareness of the importance of obtaining accreditation to the conformity assessment bodies operating in Egypt.

EGAC Participated in the Africa Food Manufacturing Exhibition

The recognition status from ILAC was maintained in Testing, Calibration and Medical laboratories besides Inspection bodies.

EGAC updated its quality system according to the requirements of the new standard ISO/IEC 17011:2017.

EGAC successfully passed AFRAC evaluation in March 2019 to confirm that EGAC has revised their Management System to bring it in alignment and compliance with the requirements of ISO/IEC 17011:2017

EGAC also started to accredit testing and calibration laboratories according to the new standard ISO/IEC 17025:2017.

In addition to the international recognition of ILAC/IAF, EGAC also is recognized from AFRAC and ARAC as regional accreditation bodies.

During this May, EGAC will sign BLA with EA for accreditation of Proficiency Testing providers PTP according to the requirements of ISO/IEC 17043.

EGAC succeeded to maintain and extend its international recognition from ILAC/IAF to be continued till 2021.

The recognition status from IAF extended to include

Food Safety management System Certification

(FSMS) besides QMS and EMS.

EGAC Communication activities:

EGAC, through its communication activities, aims to identify and raise awareness about the importance of obtaining accreditation and acceptance of accredited services Internationally, regionally and continentally from:

the international accreditation organizations (ILAC / IAF, ARAC and continental AFRAC), as well as the importance of accreditation in the promotion of local industries, foreign trade and protection of local markets Products that are not compatible with the technical legislations of the Egyptian and international market.

It also explains the steps to obtain accreditation to all the conformity assessment bodies with the availability of the latest interactive materials and information of EGAC, which answer all queries of the applicants for accreditation

Boosting Excellence in Accreditation

ENAS Launches Three Initiatives

In line with the vision of the United Arab Emirates (UAE) to be one of the best countries in the world by the year 2021, the Emirates National Accreditation System (ENAS) following UAE government vision and National Agenda in which 3 initiatives were launched to support the objectives of ENAS and its role within the Country within the national quality infrastructure and to improve the provision of its services within The UAE System of Controlling and Monitoring Conformity Assessment Bodies. Furthermore, to ensure consistent level of excellence performance and considering customer centric as a main methodology to achieving happiness for ENAS stakeholders and partners.

TAWASAL WITH ENAS

This initiative was launched in the year 2017 aiming for more effective communication and engagement of ENAS interested parties and customers.

Since then, ENAS has been actively and frequently conducting workshops and meetings within the frame of this initiative, that helped ENAS in understanding the needs and expectations of its interested parties, and supported ENAS harmonization programs for its assessors, and its awareness and informative campaigns for its partners and customers.

TAZAYED WITH ENAS

This initiative was launched and inspired by UAE initiative for the year 2018 "Year of Zayed". It aims to support Conformity Assessment Bodies (CABs) in UAE to increase their knowledge and understanding of the ENAS Accreditation schemes related requirement, and eventually improve their level of competence exceeding their customer's expectations, and will give a platform for discussions to harmonize the implementation of the Accreditation requirements and qualify technical expertise in different conformity assessment sectors through a series of highly specialized workshops and training activities.

TAMAYZ WITH ENAS

This initiative was officially announced by the Director of the National Accreditation Dr. Rehab Al Ameri in the closing of ENAS Assessors/ Experts Harmonization Meetings series December 2018. It sets a recognition framework for those who contributed and added value through ENAS journey.

This initiative based on appreciating ENAS stakeholder, and partner on annual bases which will include Awarding for different categories (Assessor, Regulators, Influencer.....). Furthermore, this initiative also aim to build a cohesive relations between all contributors within the accreditation supply chain, which will highlight and value all efforts taken by each player within the system in a principle of "Accreditation made Excellence"

WAD 2019: Accreditation: Adding value to supply chains

Supply chains provide a vital role in delivering products and services for consumers, business and the public sector in a timely, cost-efficient and quality manner. Accreditation and, with it, other quality infrastructure tools such as standards, metrology and conformity assessment, provide widely accepted tools that help deliver value to the supply chain. These tools help with trust and assurance, enabling confidence in both final products and services and the manner in which they are placed on the market and used.

Appreciations

After the key note address H.E the Minister presented plaques to the guest speakers and accreditation certificates to the first 10 testing laboratories accredited to the revised version of ISO/IEC 17025 published in 2017. A certificate was also presented to the only medical testing laboratory accredited by TUNAC so far.
